

THE Nth DEGREE SERIES

Tuesday, April 4
7:00-10:00 p.m.

Casablanca at 75: A Refugee Story

Theresa Lang Community and Student Center
Arnhold Hall, The New School
55 West 13th Street, New York City

Casablanca is one of classical Hollywood's greatest romances, but its underlying story concerns the plight of European refugees, an unusually timely, urgent theme for today.

This event, which focuses on the refugee theme of the film, includes a screening of Casablanca and a conversation with Noah Isenberg, Lang professor of culture and media and author of We'll Always Have Casablanca: The Life, Legend, and Afterlife of Hollywood's Most Beloved Movie (Norton, 2017), and Alexander Aleinikoff, director of the Zolberg Institute on Migration and Mobility at The New School. Moderated by A.O. Scott of the New York Times.

Presented by the Department of Culture and Media at Eugene Lang College of Liberal Arts, the Zolberg Institute on Migration and Mobility, and the MA in Liberal Studies program at The New School for Social Research.

CREATIVE MINDS CREATING CHANGE

The Nth Degree is a curated series of events featuring thinkers, visionaries, and creators who bring about positive change in the world—and redefine the cutting edge. The series continues The New School's century-long tradition of forward thinking by spotlighting lectures, performances, panels, and other public programs that galvanize curious minds.

SPRING 2017 CALENDAR OF EVENTS

FEBRUARY

02/05 Immersive Storytelling Symposium

02/17 Social Justice Through Music: A Conversation with Producer Ian Brennan

02/21 Mannes American Composers Ensemble Concert

MARCH

03/04-05 The Space in Between—NYC Science, Art, and Culture Conference

03/09 Architecture, War, and the Erasure of Identity

03/14 Who Sets the National Agenda?

03/20 Resilient Cities, Livable Futures: Urban Resilience to Weather-Related Extreme Events in the U.S. and Latin America

APRIL

04/04 Casablanca at 75: A Refugee Story

04/20-21 Invisibility: The Power of an Idea. The 36th Annual Social Research Conference

04/25 The New Historia: Discovering Women of the Past to Change the Future

04/28-29 Zero Waste Food Conference

MAY

05/01 Assuming Boycott: Resistance, Agency, and Cultural Production Book Launch and Conversation

AND MORE